DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1 – 32 are subject to the election of species requirement detailed below.

Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

The claims read on different species of polymer, which are defined by the monomer units that are included in the polymer feed. As such, applicants must elect a species for each of the different claimed monomer units, as follows:

- 1) Different species of (a1) and (a2). Applicants must elect a single claimed species for (a1), and a species for (a2) that is a direct preproduct of the elected (a1).
- 2) Different species of (b). Applicant must elect a single claimed species of (b)
- 3) Different species of (c). Applicant must elect a single claimed species of (c).
- 4) Different species of (d). Applicant must elect a single claimed species of (d).

The species elected in each case must be identified by chemical formula or name, and may not include any generic, undefined, or alternative groups. For example, an election of "(meth)acrylates" as one of the species would not be compliant with this requirement, whereas an election of "methylmethacrylate" would be compliant.

Applicants are required to elect a species for each of 1 – 4, above in order that a single species of polymer may be elected.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

A technical feature is "special" if it distinguishes the claims over the prior art. In this case, the only common technical feature is the polymer of claim 1. This polymer is known in the art. See JP 2001 181354 A (cited in International Preliminary Examination Report). As such, it cannot be the special technical feature that is shared between the species. All other aspects of the species are specific to the individual species, and are not shared among the different species.

Because this requirement is complex, a telephonic response was not solicited.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
